

A team of scientists from the University of Cambridge have developed a new stem cell procedure which rejuvenates brain cells in rats. The procedure has incredible potential as it could someday be used to treat ageing-related brain diseases like Multiple Sclerosis (MS). stem cells in the brain